

Love 'n' Kisses Kissing Booth

Issue 1, March/April 2007

Sprinkle some romance into your life

Welcome!

Welcome to the very first edition of the Kissing Booth!

Every two months, the Kissing Booth will contain romantic hints and ideas, romantic holiday and restaurant recommendations, romantic gift suggestions and loads more!

While we will feature new products as they become available on the Love 'n' Kisses website, our plan is to also include information on products, ideas or website links that come to our attention.

Our goal is to inspire and help you to sprinkle some romance into your life.

Enjoy the first issue!

WAYS TO POP THE QUESTION

How can you pop the question in an exciting, unusual and romantic way?

You've been together for quite some time now. You know without a doubt she's the perfect one for you - she's everything you ever dreamed of. There is no question in your mind. It's time to pop the question.

So what now? How do you do it? How will you make the event something extra special that she will remember and cherish forever?

You could go all out, and take her on an overseas trip to one of the world's many romantic locations such as the Eiffel Tower in Paris or on a Gondola ride in Venice. Or, you could keep it local, and take advantage of one of the many romantic experiences that exist in our our backyard.

Some websites that offer "experiences" include www.redballoondays.com.au and www.wishlist.com.au.

Pop the question in an exciting, unique and romantic way.

Consider some of the following romantic experiences:

- Book a twilight scenic helicopter flight over the city.
- Delight in a gondola romantic starlight cruise.
- Take a trip in a hot air balloon with picnic basket and champagne.
- Book an overnight stay on a luxury yacht.
- Enjoy a weekend away at a magical rainforest retreat.

Honey Dust

You've heard about it on US television shows such as NCIS, now experience it for yourself.

Honey Dust is probably Kama Sutra's most famous product. It's made of real honey and honeysuckle and other natural products, and tastes just like, well, honey. Each 200 gm air-tight tin comes with a satin pouch filled with powder and a handmade feather applicator.

By dusting it on yourself and your lover, you'll leave a silky-soft glow, a delicate fragrance and an irresistible taste.

In addition to being a sexy applicator, the beautifully handmade feather applicator works wonderfully for teasing and tantalising the skin.

There are four different flavours available: Original Honeysuckle, Raspberry Kiss, Tangerines and Cream and Strawberries and Champagne.

DID YOU KNOW?

Nicholas Cage met his first wife, actress Patricia Arquette, in 1987 in a Los Angeles deli.

After a few hours he announced he was going to marry her, but she declined.

He insisted that she put him on a quest to prove his love for her so she wrote a list of impossible requests on a napkin, including a black orchid, an autograph from known recluse JD Salinger and a wedding dress from a Tibetan tribe.

Cage promptly presented Arquette with a spray-painted orchid and a letter from Salinger. They married eight years later after a chance meeting.

Gift Ideas Romantic Gifts for Her

If you're looking for a romantic gift for her, consider a Pandora charm bracelet.

Pandora jewellery is of original Danish design and has over 600 beads and matching jewellery to choose from. Which means you can add to it over time, and select new beads that represent the most special moments in her life!

Unlike traditional charm bracelets, Pandora bracelets work on a thread system, which allows you to screw individual beads onto one of three different bracelet segments in any order you choose. The beads move freely and rotate slightly, creating an eye-catching and stunning effect.

Beads are available in sterling silver and 14K gold, and different pieces may also include precious stones and cultured pearls. Each bracelet can be as unique as the woman who wears it.

For more information, or to find an Australian retailer, visit www.pandora.com.au.

Colour of my Love

So what do the colour of roses really mean?

Red

Love, passion, respect, courage.

White

Innocence, purity, secrecy.

Yellow

Joy, friendship.

Light pink

Grace, gladness, joy.

Dark pink

Thankfulness.

Red and white combined

Unity

Orange

Fascination

Peach

Desire

On a piece of paper, write 50 reasons why you love your partner (or as many as you can). Transfer these 50 reasons onto 50 separate pieces of paper (try different coloured paper, note-size).

Then, transfer the 50 individual notes into different coloured balloons. Inflate, and spread them around the house.

Keep them out-of-sight from the main doorway.

Hang a note in the entranceway: 'Why I love you'. Watch, as your partner pops and reads, pops and reads....

Writing Love Letters

Have you ever wanted to write your partner a love letter, but didn't know where to start? Here are just a few pointers you might find useful:

1. Use your opening to really catch your partner's attention. Tell a short story, or ask a question. "Remember when we spent the weekend at the snow? I do. It made me really think about all the reasons..."
2. People are usually turned off when they read fancy-sounding words or clichés. Try using conversational words. Write as if you're talking to the person. If you wouldn't say it, don't write it!
3. Use contractions freely. It makes you sound friendly and conversational. (Try "we've", "we'll", and "I've" instead of "we have", "we will" and "I have".)
4. People prefer short sentences. So try not to be too flowery!
5. Only include positive things.
6. Pick suitable stationery. Don't reduce the value of your carefully chosen words by putting them on shoddy paper!
7. Don't say. Show. Give an example of the things you really love about your partner. Don't just say 'I love you'. Tell them why – it holds so much more meaning.
8. Hand-write your letter.
9. Don't worry if it doesn't come out great the first time. Many, many people write letters several times, just to get it perfect.
10. People remember the last thing they read first. So try to keep the most important thing you want to say until last.
